

The Role of Critical Thinking in Urban and Regional Studies

19th November 2010, Department of Town and Regional Planning, University of Sheffield

9am – 9.30	Arrivals
9.30 – 9.45	Introductions	Ozlem Celik, University of Sheffield
9.45 – 11.00	Keynote Speech ‘Thou Shalt not Make Judgements’: How the Neoliberalism of the University and the Ascendancy of Poststructuralism have made Critical Thinking almost Impossible in Urban and Regional Studies	John Lovering, University of Cardiff
	Questions to Keynote Speaker
11.00 – 11.30	PhD Bingo	Peggy Haughton, University of Sheffield
11.30 – 11.45	Coffee Break
11.45 – 12.20	Presentation 1 Dismantling Architecture: An Analysis of Post-Colonial Sites of Oppression and the Power Structures that Affect the Urban, Social and Political Landscapes	Yvette Lapura,
	Questions for Yvette
12.20 – 12.55	Presentation 2 Conflicts in Urban Regeneration Projects and ‘Right to the City’	Hade Turkmen, University of Cardiff
	Questions for Hade
12.55 – 2.00	Lunch
2.00 – 2.10	Welcome back
2.10 – 2.45	Presentation 3 Heritage-led Regeneration and Social Cohesion in Multicultural Communities: A Study of the Gorton Monastery Restoration Project	Elnaz Ghafoorikoosar, University of Manchester
	Questions for Elnaz
2.45 – 3.05	Presentation 4 The Activism of Korean Environmental Movement against Construction Projects: Focusing on Dam Construction Projects	Myung-jun Kim, University of Sheffield
	Questions for Myung-jun
3.05 – 3.40	Presentation 5 Commodification of Housing	Cagri Carikci, Istanbul University Cansu Yapici, Istanbul Technical University
	Questions for Cagri and Cansu
3.40 – 4.30	Coffee Break and Poster Display
4.30 – 5.30	Discussant	Jamie Gough, University of Sheffield
	Questions for Discussant

