

"The country is a madhouse and its people are patients"

RIA News (pro-government news agency)

With post-Euromaidan Ukraine, the use of loaded terms became especially visible in Russian mainstream online media, with pro-government outlets liberally making use of derogatory terms for the Ukrainian government and Ukrainians.

While it is still unclear who coined these terms, we find the Russian pro-government media using them almost religiously.