International Association of Chaplains in Higher Education

Chaplaincy staff in Universities will visit Sheffield in 2020

Chaplaincy staff in higher education from around the world will be, for the first time, coming to Sheffield, England for the sixth conference of the International Association of Chaplains in Higher Education quadrennial conference.

Günther Sturms, chair of association said: "Our 2020 conference, Liberty, Legacy, Leadership, is an outstanding opportunity for higher-education chaplains to develop and re-energise their practice and professionalise their delivery. Hosted in a safe and inclusive environment, the 2020 conference will foster collaboration, best-practice sharing and high-quality networking among colleagues from across the globe." Günther is based in Delft in the Netherlands.

Jeremy Clines who is facilitating the Sheffield-based conference said "Sheffield sits on the edge of the Peak District National Park. The conference setting for Liberty, Legacy, Leadership, is beautiful, secure and well connected to airports, international rail and sea ports."

Keynote speakers, expert in their field and passionate about chaplaincy will be delivering talks and tours and seminars will run throughout the week.

The 6th global conference for chaplains in higher education will be held in Sheffield, England, over 5 days and 4 nights from 15-19 June 2020.

Liberty, Legacy, Leadership is the 2020 conference of the International Association of Chaplains in Higher Education (IACHE) and is hosted by the Conference of European University Chaplains (CEUC).
