What is student life like?

Get the children to become school/student journalists and develop questions they would like to ask in an interview with a typical undergraduate student (this could be published in a school or even our student magazine).

Involves children in a simple student budgeting exercise, giving groups a set amount of “money” and asking them to work out what proportion they should spend on books, food, travel, rent, going out.

Plan (or even cook) a simple student menu working out ingredients, portions, timings and costs.

Look at university websites and ask children to design a poster encouraging others to consider coming to university.
