Current Awareness

1. Everyone to be 'research patient', says David Cameron

Every NHS patient should be a "research patient" with their medical details "opened up" to private healthcare firms, says David Cameron. The PM says it will mean all those who use the NHS in England will be helping in the fight against disease. He hopes the result will be that patients get faster access to new treatments and Britain's life sciences sector will become a world leader. <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-16026827>

2. GP's 'denied freedom to make NHS reforms work'

GPs planning to take charge of the NHS budget in England claim they are being denied the freedom to make a difference to patients by "bullying" managers.

GP-led consortia will take charge of buying and planning care in April 2013.

The Clinical Commissioning Coalition, set up to represent the groups, said doctors felt they were being blocked and coerced by local health chiefs.

3. Cancer 'drives families into debt', says charity report

Two-thirds of parents of children with cancer surveyed by a cancer charity say they have been forced to borrow money to make ends meet. Of the 245 families interviewed, 76% said that their child's illness had had a major impact on finances with two in three parents experiencing a loss of earnings. The survey was carried out by children's cancer charity CLIC Sargent. It wants the government to ensure families get more financial support. <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/health-16003013>

4. Dystrophy patients face 'avoidable' hospital admissions

The NHS is wasting up to £31m a year - and putting lives in danger - because it does not give the right care to people with muscle-wasting conditions, according to campaigners. A report covering eight NHS trusts found 41% of emergency admissions for such patients could have been avoided. The Muscular Dystrophy Campaign report says patients miss out on access to specialists and equipment. Ministers said care for patients would improve with planned NHS modernisation.

5. WHO issues Europe measles warning

European countries need to act now to tackle measles outbreaks, the World Health Organization warns. The WHO report says there were over 26,000 measles cases in 36 European countries from January to October 2011. Western European countries reported 83% of those cases, with 14,000 in France alone. In England and Wales, there were just under 1,000 confirmed measles cases in that period - compared with just 374 in the whole of 2010.
