Tandem Learning at the University of Sheffield Lesley Walker and Tim Lewis

The Case for Tandem Learning

Tim Lewis

1 Key Concepts of Tandem Learning

1.1 Autonomous Language Learning in Tandem: The Development of a Concept Helmut Brammerts

1.2 Tandem Language Learning and Learner Autonomy David Little

2 Tandem Learning

2.1 Learning by Communicating in Tandem

Helmut Brammerts and Mike Calvert

2.2 Nothing to Say? Suggestions for Tandem Learning

Elke St John and Liz White

2.3 Encouraging Intercultural Competence in Tandem Learning

Jane Woodin

2.4 Language Learning Strategies in Tandem: How to Learn Efficiently

Eric Otto

2.5 Tandem Learning and Intercultural Competence

Uschi Stickler and Tim, Lewis

3 Supporting the Tandem Learner

3.1 Aims and Approaches in Individual Learner Counselling

Helmut Brammerts, Mike Calvert and Karin Kleppin

3.2 Student-Centred Counselling for Tandem Advising

Ursula Stickler

3.3 Individual Counselling in Different Tandem Contexts

Helmut Brammerts, Bengt Jonsson, Karin Kleppin, Lidia Santiso Saco

3.4 The Role of the Tandem Learner Diary in Supporting and Developing Learner Autonomy

Lesley Walker

3.5 Group Work with Peers: Pairs Advise Pairs

Brigitte Helmling

4 Practical Help: Support from the Internet

4.1 Supporting Face-to-Face Tandem Learning

Helmut Brammerts and Karin Kleppin

5 Integrating Tandem into Higher Education: a Range of National Experiences

5.1 Integrating Autonomous Learning into the Curriculum

Tim Lewis

5.2 Integrating Tandem Learning into a University Curriculum for Trainee Language Teachers

Annette Gabdorf

5.3 Integration of Tandem into Foreign Language Curricula: Examples from the Universities of Bochum and Oviedo

Margarita Blanco Holscher, Karin Kleppin, Lidia Santiso Saco

5.4 Language Learning in Tandem via Email

Jackie McPartland

5.5 eTandem for Trainee Teachers in Portugal: A Pilot Project at the university of Coimbra

Carola strobl and Judite Carecho
5.6 Email Collaborations in Foreign Language Education: A North American Perspective

Norbert Hedderich