What are the Social Sciences?

Social science covers a broad and exciting field of study. Essentially it is the science of people and can tell us about the world beyond our own experience. It can help explain how our own society works— from the causes of unemployment, to what creates economic growth, to how and why people vote, or why places carry meaning for people? It provides vital information for governments and policymakers, local authorities, non-governmental organisations and other professionals. If you’re fascinated by people and how society works then social sciences are definitely for you.

What is Discover Social Sciences?

The purpose of Discover Social Sciences is to raise the aspirations of young people whose family or personal circumstances mean they may not have considered studying at university or a career in the social sciences, as a possibility.

The University of Sheffield has created a programme of events for post-16 students in local schools and colleges, beginning at the start of Year 12 and continuing through to the end of Year 13. Participants will get a feel for what university is really like and which social science degree courses could be for them. They will work closely with our current undergraduate students and learn about their journeys into higher education and what their lives are like studying at the University of Sheffield.

If you feel like this programme is something that interests you, and you would like to know more, please see the following link - www.shef.ac.uk/schools/outreach-programmes/discover-social-sciences

For details of how to apply please see the following link - www.shef.ac.uk/schools/outreach-programmes/discover-social-sciences/apply

For more information on the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Sheffield please see the following link - www.shef.ac.uk/faculty/social-sciences

For further information you can talk to teachers in your school, or alternatively you can contact the Discover Social Sciences team using the details below:

Stephen Cundill
0114 22221235
s.cundill@sheffield.ac.uk

Neil McCusker
0114 2225336
n.mccusker@sheffield.ac.uk

At the University of Sheffield the Faculty of Social Sciences is made up of the following academic departments:

ARCHITECTURE
ARTS ASIAN STUDIES
ECONOMICS
EDUCATION
 GEOGRAPHY
INFORMATION SCHOOL
JOURNALISM STUDIES
LANDSCAPE
LAW
MANAGEMENT
POLITICS
SOCIOLOGICAL STUDIES
TOWN & REGIONAL PLANNING
What are the Social Sciences?
Social science covers a broad and exciting field of study. Essentially it is the science of people and can tell us about the world beyond our own experience. It can help explain how our own society works - from the causes of unemployment, to what creates economic growth, to how and why people vote, or why places carry meaning for people? It provides vital information for governments and policymakers, local authorities, non-governmental organisations and other professionals. If you're fascinated by people and how society works then social sciences are definitely for you.

What is Discover Social Sciences?
The purpose of Discover Social Sciences is to raise the aspirations of young people whose family or personal circumstances mean they may not have considered studying at university or a career in the social sciences, as a possibility.

The University of Sheffield has created a programme of events for post-16 students in local schools and colleges, beginning at the start of Year 12 and continuing through to the end of Year 13. Participants will get a feel for what university is really like and which social science degree courses could be for them. They will work closely with our current undergraduate students and learn about their journeys into higher education and what their lives are like studying at the University of Sheffield.

At the University of Sheffield the Faculty of Social Sciences is made up of the following academic departments:

ARCHITECTURE
EAST ASIAN STUDIES
ECONOMICS
EDUCATION
GEOGRAPHY
INFORMATION SCHOOL
JOURNALISM STUDIES
LANDSCAPE
LAW
MANAGEMENT
POLITICS
SOCIOLOGICAL STUDIES
TOWN & REGIONAL PLANNING
What are the Social Sciences?

Social science covers a broad and exciting field of study. Essentially, it is the science of people and can tell us about the world beyond our own experiences. It can help explain how our own society works - from the causes of unemployment, to what creates economic growth, to how and why people vote, or why places carry meaning for people? It provides vital information for governments and policymakers, local authorities, non-governmental organisations and other professionals. If you're fascinated by people and how society works then social sciences are definitely for you.

What is Discover Social Sciences?

The purpose of Discover Social Sciences is to raise the aspirations of young people whose family or personal circumstances mean they may not have considered studying at university or a career in the social sciences, as a possibility.

The University of Sheffield has created a programme of events for post-16 students in local schools and colleges, beginning at the start of Year 12 and continuing through to the end of Year 13. Participants will get a feel for what university is really like and which social science degree courses could be for them. They will work closely with our current undergraduate students and learn about their journeys into higher education and what their lives are like studying at the University of Sheffield.

For details of how to apply please see the following link - www.shef.ac.uk/schools/outreach-programmes/discoversocialsciences/apply

For more information on the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Sheffield please see the following link - www.shef.ac.uk/faculty/social-sciences

For further information you can talk to teachers in your school, or alternatively you can contact the Discover Social Sciences team using the details below:

Stephen Carding
0114 22221235
s.carding@sheffield.ac.uk

Neil McCusker
0114 2225336
n.mccusker@sheffield.ac.uk

At the University of Sheffield the Faculty of Social Sciences is made up of the following academic departments:

ARCHITECTURE
EAST ASIAN STUDIES
ECONOMICS
EDUCATION
GEOGRAPHY
INFORMATION SCHOOL
JOURNALISM STUDIES
LANDSCAPE
LAW
MANAGEMENT
POLITICS
SOCIOLOGICAL STUDIES
TOWN & REGIONAL PLANNING
The Discover Social Sciences programme takes place over 2 stages:

Stage 1 – During Year 12
In the first year of the scheme we will provide the opportunity for participants to get a taste of all of the subjects within our Faculty of Social Sciences, and explore the kinds of problems and issues they engage with. This will include 3 themed events where we examine a real world issue and solve problems by combining the skills and expertise within the different social science subjects, e.g. by architects, town planners, geographers and sociologists working together for a common goal.

Participants will also be invited to our university open days where they will be able to attend talks given by departments, speak to staff and tour the student accommodation.

Stage 2 – During Year 13
In stage 2 we will provide advice and guidance to participants as they begin the process of applying to university. This will include help on choosing the right course / university, understanding the UCAS application process and student finance. In tandem with participants deciding on a particular social science subject to study at university we will provide events that will allow them to focus on that subject in more detail.

We will also provide opportunities for you to develop your academic skills so you are prepared for university level study, focusing on exam and revision techniques, research and essay writing tips as well as team working exercises.

Careers in the Social Sciences
A social science graduate can consider a very wide range of career and further study options. Many pursue a career in their chosen specialist area such as law, town planning, social work or journalism. However, a social science degree will give you the transferable skills to be successful in many other types of career.

Participants on Discover Social Sciences will receive dedicated support and advice from university academics and our Careers Service.

If you’re fascinated by people and how society works then social sciences are definitely for you.
The Discover Social Sciences programme takes place over 2 stages:

Stage 1 – During Year 12
In the first year of the scheme we will provide the opportunity for participants to get a taste of all of the subjects within our Faculty of Social Sciences and explore the kinds of problems and issues they engage with. This will include 3 themed events where we examine a real world issue and solve problems by combining the skills and expertise within the different social science subjects, e.g. by architects, town planners, geographers and sociologists working together for a common goal.

Participants will also be invited to our university open days where they will be able to attend talks given by departments, speak to staff and tour the student accommodation.

Stage 2 – During Year 13
In stage 2 we will provide advice and guidance to participants as they begin the process of applying to university. This will include help on choosing the right course/ university, understanding the UCAS application process and student finance. In tandem with participants deciding on a particular social science subject to study at university we will provide events that will allow them to focus on that subject in more detail.

We will also provide opportunities for you to develop your academic skills as you are prepared for university level study, focusing on exam and revision techniques, research and essay writing tips as well as team working exercises.

Careers in the Social Sciences
A social science graduate can consider a very wide range of career and further study options. Many pursue a career in their chosen specialist area such as law, town planning, social work or journalism. However, a social science degree will give you the transferable skills to be successful in many other types of career.

Participants on Discover Social Sciences will receive dedicated support and advice from university academics and our Careers Service.

If you’re fascinated by people and how society works then social sciences are definitely for you.
The Discover Social Sciences programme takes place over 2 stages:

Stage 1 – During Year 12
In the first year of the scheme we will provide the opportunity for participants to get a taste of all of the subjects within our Faculty of Social Sciences and explore the kinds of problems and issues they engage with. This will include 3 themed events where we examine a real world issue and solve problems by combining the skills and expertise within the different social science subjects, e.g. by architects, town planners, geographers and sociologists working together for a common goal.

Participants will also be invited to our university open days where they will be able to attend talks given by departments, speak to staff and tour the student accommodation.

Stage 2 – During Year 13
In stage 2 we will provide advice and guidance to participants as they begin the process of applying to university. This will include help on choosing the right course / university, understanding the UCAS application process and student finance. In tandem with participants deciding on a particular social science subject to study at university we will provide events that will allow them to focus on that subject in more detail.

We will also provide opportunities for you to develop your academic skills so you are prepared for university level study, focusing on exam and revision techniques, research and essay writing tips as well as team working exercises.

Careers in the Social Sciences
A social science graduate can consider a very wide range of career and further study options. Many pursue a career in their chosen specialist area such as law, town planning, social work or journalism. However, a social science degree will give you the transferable skills to be successful in many other types of career.

Participants on Discover Social Sciences will receive dedicated support and advice from university academics and our Careers Service.
The Discover Social Sciences programme takes place over 2 stages:

Stage 1 – During Year 12
In the first year of the scheme we will provide the opportunity for participants to get a taste of all of the subjects within our Faculty of Social Sciences and explore the kinds of problems and issues they engage with. This will include 3 themed events where we examine a real world issue and solve problems by combining the skills and expertise within the different social science subjects, e.g. by architects, town planners, geographers and sociologists working together for a common goal.
Participants will also be invited to our university open days where they will be able to attend talks given by departments, speak to staff and tour the student accommodation.

Stage 2 – During Year 13
In stage 2 we will provide advice and guidance to participants as they begin the process of applying to university. This will include help on choosing the right course / university, understanding the UCAS application process and student finance. In tandem with participants deciding on a particular social science subject to study at university we will provide events that will allow them to focus on that subject in more detail.

We will also provide opportunities for you to develop your academic skills so you are prepared for university level study, focusing on exam and revision techniques, research and essay writing tips as well as team working exercises.

Careers in the Social Sciences
A social science graduate can consider a very wide range of career and further study options. Many pursue a career in their chosen specialist area such as law, town planning, social work or journalism. However, a social science degree will give you the transferable skills to be successful in many other types of career. Participants on Discover Social Sciences will receive dedicated support and advice from university academics and our Careers Service.

If you’re fascinated by people and how society works then social sciences are definitely for you.
What are the Social Sciences?

Social science covers a broad and exciting field of study. Essentially it is the science of people and can tell us about the world beyond our own experience. It can help explain how our own society works - from the causes of unemployment, to what creates economic growth, to how and why people vote, or why places carry meaning for people? It provides vital information for governments and policymakers, local authorities, non-governmental organisations and other professionals. If you're fascinated by people and how society works then social sciences are definitely for you.

What is Discover Social Sciences?

The purpose of Discover Social Sciences is to raise the aspirations of young people whose family or personal circumstances mean they may not have considered studying at university or a career in the social sciences, as a possibility.

The University of Sheffield has created a programme of events for post-16 students in local schools and colleges, beginning at the start of Year 12 and continuing through to the end of Year 13. Participants will get a feel for what university is really like and which social science degree courses could be for them. They will work closely with our current undergraduate students and learn about their journeys into higher education and what their lives are like studying at the University of Sheffield.

If you feel like this programme is something that interests you, and you would like to know more, please see the following link - www.shef.ac.uk/schools/outreach-programmes/discoversocialsciences

For details of how to apply please see the following link - www.shef.ac.uk/schools/outreach-programmes/discoversocialsciences/apply

For more information on the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Sheffield please see the following link - www.shef.ac.uk/faculty/social-sciences

For further information you can talk to teachers in your school, or alternatively you can contact the Discover Social Sciences team using the details below:

Stephen Carding
0114 222 2125
s.carding@sheffield.ac.uk

Neil McCusker
0114 222 5336
n.mccusker@sheffield.ac.uk

The University Of Sheffield.

Discover Social Sciences.

Explore Social Science subjects and degree courses at the University of Sheffield and the careers they could lead to.