Achieve More

Achieve More is one of the most significant curriculum changes to evolve within the University’s undergraduate academic provision for 20 years. The initiative allows students to:

- tackle some of the biggest global challenges facing society today
- work across disciplines, broadening their horizons and subject knowledge
- develop team working, communication and problem solving skills
- work on real projects with prospective employers

Achieve More fosters opportunities for undergraduates to creatively develop core competencies and understanding of their role as global citizens. Alongside their academic studies, students undertake a number of Achieve More activities throughout their course. Collaboration, critical thinking, teamwork and entrepreneurial skills are just some of the attributes students develop as they undertake Achieve More activities within a wide range of subjects. Activities are based on the groundbreaking research for which the “Sheffield produces high quality graduates who are ambitious about their future.”

University is renowned and enable students to work alongside those from other disciplines to develop potential solutions for a range of real-life global problems and see how theory can inform real-world issues.

This means that our students will graduate at the end of their courses with both academic knowledge in their chosen fields and transferable employability skills, ready to become part of your future workforce.

The Sheffield Graduate
It is our aim that all graduates of the University of Sheffield will enter the workplace able to demonstrate those skills and attributes that will make them valued colleagues and contributors to the success of your organisation.

The prestigious Sheffield Graduate Award (SGA) is presented to students who have demonstrated their increased employability and possession of key skills and attributes by undertaking a wide range of extra-curricular activities during their time at the University.

Our award-winning students
Eight University of Sheffield students were shortlisted for awards in both the TARGETJOBS Undergraduate of the Year Awards and RateMyPlacement’s National Undergraduate Awards in 2015. Politics student, Mihaela Gruia triumphed in the category of ‘Best Student Contribution to a Small to Medium-Sized Enterprise’ being awarded the winner for her placement at FleishmanHillard.

Our Civil Engineering student, Lewis Yates, was named overall national winner of the ‘Student Employee of the Year 2014’ award organised by the National Association of Student Employment Services. There were over 700 nominations from nearly 60 institutions for this award, which aims to recognise and promote the outstanding contributions and achievements of students who combine part-time work with their study commitments.

If you are an organisation who is already active on campus, we are also happy to have regular discussions with you to review your activities and explore alternative strategies or new initiatives.

“I was very impressed with the helpfulness and professionalism of the staff at the Careers Service. The assistance on the day of our visit was excellent, as was the communication leading up to it. There was also clear guidance on what additional services were on offer to our company. All in all, excellent service.”

Engage.

Create awareness and recognition of your organisation on campus by considering the following activities:

Recruitment fairs *
We deliver a programme of high-profile, well-attended fairs during Autumn and Spring. Our regular themes include engineering and technology, science, business and finance, languages, law, part-time jobs, volunteering and vacation work. In addition, we organise a number of niche events in collaboration with academic departments.

NEW Industry networking events *
Our industry-focused networking events enable a small number of employers to pitch to their chosen discipline(s), followed by an informal exhibition and networking session. These are an excellent mechanism for promoting your organisation and your opportunities to a captive audience, answer any questions and talk to students one-to-one.

One-to-ones *
If you wish to have quality interactions with interested students, we can schedule informal, individual discussions with students in your targeted subject areas who are interested in finding out more about your organisation and the positions available.

Presentations *
We can arrange for you to talk to groups of students about your organisation and its opportunities. Our range of packages gives you the choice of a variety of venues and catering options, making your visit to the University of Sheffield easy to arrange and cost-effective to deliver. Our dedicated staff will guide you through our simple booking service and make all the administrative arrangements on your behalf including promoting the event to students you are keen to target and monitoring student sign-ups.

We can also help you to set up a package of options to run throughout the day, making effective use of your time on-campus.

NEW Employer in the foyer *
Promote your organisation on-campus with a pop-up stand and distribute promotional literature about your organisation to students. We can help you identify the best location to reach your target audience and publicise your attendance in advance of the day.

Mock interviews, applications and skills workshops
We welcome approaches from employers who would like to deliver sessions which will help students improve the quality of their applications and prepare for interviews. These workshops can also be used to deliver interactive sessions on skills that you are seeking in potential applicants.

Webinars and online sessions
If you are unable to visit Sheffield you can take advantage of our virtual services to meet and interact with students. This is especially useful for overseas organisations. You can also make use of our University of Sheffield Careers Network LinkedIn group to network with our students, graduates and academic staff, as well as with careers staff and other employers. Launched in 2013, it now has over 3,000 members.

Our presentation at Sheffield attracted the largest number of students we had received at any of our presentations. Not only was the number of students impressive, they all met the exact target that we had been hoping to meet.

Disco International, Spring 2014
Increasing numbers of employers now recognise the value of establishing contact with students before they enter their final year. Adopting strategies that help you identify recruits in the early years of study can be a highly cost-effective way of recruiting and retaining the right people. Our services in this area are designed to help you meet individual students and assess their suitability for your organisation.

Placements
Engaging with students through work experience can enable you to access talented, enthusiastic individuals who can bring additional skills and new ideas. If you are seeking a low risk, cost-effective way of assessing a student for permanent employment after graduation, or if you need assistance with a short-term project requiring specialist knowledge, we can support you in attracting and recruiting students.

We have a number of Year in Industry courses and most students (including postgraduates) are eligible to undertake a placement. Offering work experience opportunities to students in their first, second or penultimate years of study can be a highly beneficial way of harnessing their talent for the benefit of your organisation, and potentially filling your graduate opportunities. A range of durations can be accommodated such as an 8-week summer placement, a short vacation scheme or a 12 month placement.

Our dedicated Placements Team can help you advertise your vacancies easily, effectively and exclusively to University of Sheffield students at no cost. We can provide advice on developing and promoting a placement, work with academic departments to ensure students are aware of your opportunities, prepare students for placement, support you and your student(s) during the placement period and co-ordinate feedback throughout the process.

Linking with Faculties and Departments
We work closely with the University’s five Faculties and can offer you a fast and efficient way of establishing relationships with any academic departments you would particularly like to be in contact with. Our Employer Relations Officers can facilitate links with the appropriate staff and enable you to work with departments in a variety of ways taking into account your requirements, timescale and resources.

Examples of opportunities to partner with departments include:

- hosting a student for a placement that is required by the course
- providing a project or case study for students to work on as part of their course providing a dissertation topic or Masters project holding a guest lecture offering a competition, game or simulation providing specialist equipment for use in teaching arranging a visit to your site or offices participating in Achieve More – our faculty-based, multi-disciplinary challenge activities for first year students participating in a departmental careers day or event e.g. an alumni panel offering an Employer Award, scholarship or bursary

Employer Award
The University of Sheffield Employer Award is a unique initiative introduced by the Careers Service in response to increasing requests from graduate recruiters for advice on how to make and maintain contact with high calibre students during the early years of study and develop a talent pipeline for future graduate recruitment. The scheme establishes individually tailored, mutually beneficial partnerships between recruiters, the Careers Service and academic departments.

Student Sponsorship, Scholarships and Bursaries
We can provide assistance if you are interested in offering student sponsorship or scholarships. These packages can involve the award of a bursary to assist with costs of studying, financial assistance towards tuition fees, work experience opportunities and/or the possibility of a job offer or fast-tracking through the recruitment process. The Careers Service has an established reputation in developing and managing bespoke schemes.

Podcasts and Case Studies
We can arrange for you to produce a podcast about your own area of work, what your role involves and what the longer-term career options are. If you already employ a University of Sheffield graduate you can also ask them to submit a case study outlining their career path since graduation. As well as helping students increase their awareness of specific occupational areas, this can be an effective way to raise the profile of your organisation.

“The Employer Award has provided us with close links to the academic staff and students within the Languages Department, which has in turn provided us with access to individuals who want to work for a global employer and utilise the skills they have developed throughout their degree, including the experience of living abroad for a year, which is invaluable to a firm like ours. The immediate impact of the Award is straightforward: we have improved our profile at Sheffield in less than 12 months and have attracted some high calibre students to consider opportunities at NRF. The winner is joining us in the summer and the two runners-up are also visiting the firm. This enables us to really get to know early years students who are clearly emerging talent.”

The GREAT Ambassadors (China) Scheme
This new initiative between UK Trade & Investment and the University of Sheffield, currently piloting at the University of Sheffield ahead of a possible nation-wide rollout, aims to link businesses with the growing pool of Chinese speaking talent at UK universities, who can benefit your business internationally. We can support you in employing an intern from our pool of carefully selected candidates from the University of Sheffield, chosen for their knowledge of Chinese language and business culture. This may help your organisation build Guanxi (personal relationships) and understand Chinese business networks, test a project for the Chinese market cost effectively or understand Chinese culture and communicate more effectively.

Support for smaller businesses
Small and medium-sized enterprises are the foundation of Sheffield’s economy, making up the vast majority of our city’s businesses. Our staff are therefore experienced in working with smaller organisations both locally and nationally, and will help you use your time and budget to best effect. We can offer you support to advertise your vacancies and get your name known on campus, guidance through the recruitment process, and advice on funding and schemes available to local or smaller organisations. We can also offer you space to conduct interviews or run selection activities.

We work closely with partner organisations on a number of initiatives which provide support for small businesses, including RISE, an award-winning city-wide partnership which connects Sheffield’s network of innovative and exciting small and medium-sized businesses to graduates with enthusiasm and fresh ideas through graduate internships. The first scheme of its kind in the UK, RISE has so far provided support and funding to over 120 employer and graduate partnerships.

There is no better way for students to explore their employment options than talking to someone actually doing the job. Our eMentoring scheme matches motivated students with mentors working in an occupational area of interest to them. Register as a mentor and you can share your valuable knowledge and experience while developing your own skills and strengthening your links to our pool of talented students. We appreciate that our mentors are busy people so communication is online via email and/or Skype, delivered flexibly over 7-10 weeks (typically one exchange per week with your mentee). The scheme runs twice a year (October-December and February-May). Matching is dependent on a suitable student applying to the scheme.
The Careers Service can support your organisation in making links with other parts of the University for the following:

Knowledge Transfer Partnerships (KTPs)
Knowledge Transfer Partnerships (KTPs) are Europe’s leading programme helping businesses to improve their competitiveness and productivity through the better use of the knowledge, technology and skills that reside in the UK universities. The scheme part funds a talented graduate to work for you for up to 2-years on a specific problem of your choosing, whilst being supervised by an experienced member of our academic staff.

Managing Director’s Club
The Managing Directors’ Club brings together leading regional business figures and senior academics to exchange knowledge and ideas for future collaborations and partnerships that support growth and prosperity in the Sheffield city region. Sheffield Hallam University and the University of Sheffield have a strong history of collaboration with the city and the Managing Director’s Club is the latest example of this collaboration, aiming to further strengthen our links with business and industry in the Sheffield city region.

Provision of cutting-edge facilities
Many of our world-class facilities are available for use by industry. All of our equipment is maintained and used by experts in their area, who are also available to help you get best value in solving your business problems, ranging from routine testing/analysis to advanced research questions.

Professional development training courses for your staff
The University of Sheffield offers a wide range of professional training and development courses to help you or your staff maintain and update their knowledge and skills. Many of our courses are accredited by professional bodies.

More than 100 years ago, the local people of Sheffield understood the tremendous impact that a University would have on improving their children’s lives through education; on regional and international trade; and on society’s health, wellbeing and future prosperity. So strongly did they believe in higher education as a force for good, that they raised £50,000 in penny collections (c.£15 million today) to build a University in their city.

Here in the Careers Service, we continue with that ethos in our work with employers. We offer a range of services to suit every budget, including a selection that are free of charge.
