BRITISH SCIENCE WEEK 2016

11 – 20 March

The University of Sheffield, Sheffield Hallam University and other South Yorkshire venues.

Most events are free of charge.

The University of Sheffield and Sheffield Hallam University have worked together with local partners to create a packed programme of events for all ages for British Science Week 2016 – which celebrates all that is best about science, technology, engineering and mathematics across South Yorkshire.

A range of exciting, free public events will be taking place which will build on our world class research and emphasise the central role played by science and technology in our region. There will be talks, workshops, lectures, demonstrations and even a trip to the graveyard!

Life

Monday 18 – Sunday 24 April

A festival of health, from head to toe.

Life festival is a celebration of the work that the University of Sheffield’s medicine, dentistry and health researchers are doing to improve people’s lives. There will be talks, workshops, demonstrations, hands-on activities, lab tours and much more.

There are events for all ages and entry is free! Come along and find out how we’re making it better in Sheffield and around the world.

The full programme and booking will be released before Easter. www.sheffield.ac.uk/life

FESTIVAL OF ARTS AND HUMANITIES

Wednesday 11 – Sunday 21 May

Venues across Sheffield

A celebration of thinking and being, of people and culture. Through a diverse programme of concerts, talks, workshops and screenings we will explore what it is to be human, seeking a better understanding of our place in this changing world.

Awaken your imagination and challenge your creativity with inspiration from the departments of Music, English, History, Philosophy, Archaeology and Languages.

We’ll be joining in with Sheffield’s Year of Clinical Trials Day in a special collaborative medical event on 20 May.

Together with a host of special guests, including writers, musicians, poets, photographers alongside partners from around the city, we will probe the past, present and future and examine our relationships with ourselves, others and the world around us.
