The School of Nursing and Midwifery at the University of Sheffield is funded for five years by the Royal College of Nursing (RCN) to engage in a Strategic Research Alliance.

The alliance aims to develop and conduct a new programme of research activity that links to RCN operational and strategic priorities. The alliance is further strengthened by the School of Health & Related Research at University of Sheffield.

The alliance will deliver a programme of mutually agreed nursing research activity which is anticipated to comprise a mix of evidence reviews and primary research.

Reviews will utilise a mix of methodologies depending on the purpose and scope, including realist review methodologies.

Research activity will influence:
- policy
- education
- patient care

Examples include:
- clinical research scholars
- 2x doctoral studentships part time over 4.5 years/ full time over 3 years
- UK based seminar series
