PUBLICATIONS - Emeritus Professor Shelagh Brumfitt

BOOKS - in print

Brumfitt, S.M. 2010 (ed) Psychological well being and acquired communication impairment. Chichester, UK Wiley-Blackwell

Brumfitt, S. M. (1986 - 1994) Counselling. Winslow Press. Bicester. 73pp. This textbook has been one of the core texts on speech and language courses for the whole period of its publication.

‘VASES will be of interest to researchers and clinicians alike. This is an important step in aphasia research and service provision, acknowledging the aphasic person’s right to independence of autonomy and decision making, concerning their own life’.

CHAPTERS – in print

Brumfitt, S. M. & Gray, C The Speech and Language Therapist. Doel, M and Sharrard, (eds) Practice Learning in health care

REFEREED JOURNALS- in press

Clegg, J; Black, R; Smith, A; Brumfitt, Examining the impact of a city wide Intensive Interaction staff training programme for adults with profound and multiple learning disability (PMLD): a mixed methods evaluation. Disability and Rehabilitation

REFEREED JOURNALS – IN PRINT

John, M; Baxter, S.K; Blank, L; Cantrell, A; Brumfitt, S.M; Enderby, P.M; Goyder, E 2015 The state of the art in interventions for developmental stuttering. Part Two: the experience of stuttering and interventions for stuttering across the life course, a qualitative evidence synthesis. Int J of Language and Communication Disorders

James, S; Brumfitt, S.M; Cowell, P.E 2009 The influence of communication situation on self report in people who stutter. Int Journal of Speech-Language Pathology. 11:1 34-44

Brumfitt, S.M. & Freeman, M 2007 Speech and Language Therapy students’ perceptions of learning in a university clinical setting. Learning in Health and Social Care 6 4 231-244

Clegg, J; Brumfitt, S. M; Parks, R; Woodruff, P (2006) Speech and language therapy intervention in schizophrenia; a case study. Int. Journal of Language and Communication disorders. Vol 42 Supp. 1 81-103

Brumfitt, S. M. (2006) Psychosocial aspects of aphasia: speech and language therapists’ views on professional practice Disability and Rehabilitation 28(8) 523-534

Brumfitt, SM, Enderby, PM; Hoben, K (2005) The transition to work of newly qualified speech and language therapists: implications for the curriculum. Learning in Health and Social Care 4,3 142-155

REFEREED CONFERENCE PAPERS - in print/press

Brumfitt, SM (invited speaker) 2013 Managing the psychosocial effects of aphasia. NHS Primary Care and Public Health Conference 22nd May 2013. Birmingham, UK

Brumfitt, SM; Ullrich, N; Szczersbinski, M; Bradley,E 2009 Factors affecting outcome in people with aphasia admitted to an acute stroke unit. British Aphasiology conference, 9-11 September 2009

James, S, & Brumfitt, S. (2009). Personal Meanings of Telephone Use.Sixth International Fluency Association World Congress, Rio de Janeiro practice. Seventh European CPLOL Congress, Ljubljana, Slovenia.

James, S; Brumfitt, SM; Cowell, P.E 2008 Self monitoring in stammering. Oxford Dysfluency Conference, UK 3-6 July 2008

Brumfitt, S. M. & Barton, J (2006) Evaluating emotional well being in the person with acquired communication disability; a multidisciplinary approach. 12th International Aphasia Rehabilitation Conference, Sheffield, UK. Poster

Brumfitt, S. M 2003 Keynote address. British Aphasiology Society Conference, Newcastle University. 7-10 September. ‘Psychosocial aspects of aphasia: signposts to the future’

Brumfitt, S. M. & Hoben, K (2001) A preliminary report on the examination of employers and newly qualified therapists views of the first years of work. Trent region confederation day 20 July

Brumfitt, S. M. & James, S (2001) The telephone experience for the person with a stuttering difficulty. SIG Disorders of Fluency, Mosely Hall Hospital Birmingham. 16th October

James, S.E., Brumfitt, S. M (2001) Fluency, Fluency judgement and attitude in telephone face to face speaking situations IALP. Montreal. Canada. Poster

James, SE & Brumfitt, SM (2000) Factors influencing stutterers' and non-stutterers’ perceptions of successful telephone conversations). World Congress of Fluency Disorders, Nyborg, Denmark, August 7th-11th.

Brumfitt, S. M. (1998) The measurement of psychological well-being in the person with a communication disorder. Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists Conference. 15-17 October

Brumfitt, S. M. (14 February 1996) Perspectives on counselling the person with aphasia. S.I.G. for the elderly. Sheffield Speech and Language therapy service

NON-REFEREED ABSTRACTS, REPORTS & OTHER PUBLICATIONS – in print

Brumfitt, S. M., Kardosh, B. 2001 Multicultural influences in the service for dysphasic speakers in North Israel. Therapy weekly May 24 Vol 27, No 45 (16)

Brumfitt, S. M. & James, S 2001 Using the telephone and coping with stuttering. Online conference, Mankato Website

(J) James, S., Brumfitt, S. M., Cudd, P (1998) Attitudes and feelings towards the telephone. Speaking Out. 19 No 2 4-6

(J) Shewell, C. and Brumfitt, S. M. (1994) Teaching interpersonal and counselling skills to speech and language therapy students. Bulletin of the College of Speech and Language Therapists. Feb 502 6-8

