WELCOME TO YOUR GUIDE TO COURSES FOR MATURE STUDENTS

At the University of Sheffield we understand the value of studying for a degree at any age. We celebrate the life experience and skills that mature students bring to their learning, which greatly enrich the learning experience for everybody. The University is committed to maintaining the diversity of its student body now and into the future, and this guide introduces you to some of the ways in which we provide opportunities for mature students to flourish.

The Department for Lifelong Learning plays a central role in the University’s commitment to mature learners. We offer courses to students aged 21 or over, from all backgrounds and experiences, which allow you to study towards a degree by a range of different pathways. You don’t need traditional entry qualifications to study for a degree with us – instead, what we are looking for is your desire, readiness and commitment to succeed.

Our courses span almost 40 different subject areas, and some are available part-time. Our staff have many years of experience teaching and advising mature students, and we recognise that every mature student has a different reason or motivation for study. We also know that there are a wide range of possible pathways to and beyond degree level study, which is why we are happy to spend time advising you on how to make the right choice for you.

If you already have the qualifications and desire to begin studying immediately on the first year of a degree, many departments around the University welcome applications from mature students directly to their degree courses, some of which are available part-time. You can find out more about all these courses in this short guide.

If you have any further questions, or just want to talk to someone about the best options for you, please explore the different sources of online information referred to in this guide, pick up the phone, or send us an email. It might just be the first step towards transforming your future.

Dr Willy Kitchen, Head of Department for Lifelong Learning
DEPARTMENT FOR LIFELONG LEARNING

More and more mature students are starting their journey to a degree with the Department for Lifelong Learning. So why study with us?

- We have many years of experience teaching and supporting adult learners
- Our students don’t need standard entry qualifications
- Some of our courses can be studied full-time or part-time
- Financial support is available and you don’t need to pay anything upfront*
- We offer tailored support from before you apply until after you graduate
- You will study alongside mature students from all backgrounds, helping to build a strong network of peer-support
- We have an award winning Outreach programme for adults wishing to find out more about University study before applying

*see page 12 for more information

To find out more about the different pathways we offer, please read on:

- Degrees with a Foundation Year (see pages 6-7)
- CertHE in Combined Studies (see page 8)
- CertHE in Combined Studies with a Foundation Year (part-time foundation programme) (see page 9)
WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY....

“I wanted to make a positive change in my life.”

“I’ve met so many people that I’d never have met before.”

“My children have all grown up so I felt that now is the right time.”

“With your confidence building, you learn what you’re capable of.”

To see video case studies of these students, and more, please visit www.sheffield.ac.uk/dll/meet-our-students
Entry requirements for courses in the Department for Lifelong Learning

The requirements for entry to our courses are different to those for students wishing to enter directly to a degree course. Our courses are designed specifically for mature students who have been out of education for some time, and who don’t have standard entry qualifications.

We are committed to supporting learners from non-traditional backgrounds to succeed at university and consider a range of factors including previous work, life and educational experience.

For more information on entry criteria for individual courses, visit www.sheffield.ac.uk/dll/courses

COURSES WITH THE DEPARTMENT FOR LIFELONG LEARNING

Degrees with a Foundation Year – full-time and part-time

Our degrees with a foundation year have been specially designed to give students without standard entry qualifications the opportunity to study for the degree of their choice. Students study their foundation year within the Department for Lifelong Learning and on successful completion of the foundation year, transfer to the academic department in which they will complete their degree.

All foundation years include core modules in academic literacy and communication skills, maths and statistics, an extended project and subject specific introductory modules relevant to your chosen degree course.

These courses are aimed at learners who want to study for a specific degree but don’t have the relevant qualifications for direct entry to that degree.

A full-time degree with a foundation year is usually studied over 4 years. See page 7 for those courses which are also available part-time.
We currently offer the following degrees with a foundation year:

CertHE in Combined Studies (part-time)

Our part-time Certificate in Combined Studies (CertHE) is a two year course which is ideal for students looking for a flexible part-time programme of study. This course is equivalent to studying for the first year of a degree.

This course can be studied with or without a foundation year (see page 9), and we recommend applicants discuss their options with us before applying.

Students enrolled on the CertHE in Combined Studies study 120 credits over two years (typically six different modules). These modules are chosen from core modules offered by the Department for Lifelong Learning and a variety of Level 1 modules from across the University. In addition, we ask students to engage in a range of learning activities outside of class time which are designed to develop and assess your learning over the duration of the programme.

The programme as a whole enables students to develop academic and transferable skills which can help both with career development and progression to further HE study.

The programme will suit applicants who:
- Have a general interest in developing their academic skills
- Are looking to gain a University award which can help with career prospects or progression
- Want to try out higher education study without committing to a full degree
- Would like to spend more time familiarising themselves with a range of subject areas before committing to a specific degree programme

If you wish to find out more about this course, or discuss your suitability, please get in contact with us at dllapply@sheffield.ac.uk

Cert HE in Combined Studies with a Foundation Year (part-time foundation programme)

The CertHE Combined Studies with a Foundation Year is a part-time course designed for adult learners who do not have the standard entry qualifications required by most Higher Education courses.

Students initially study our foundation programme, part-time, over 2 years. The first year of the foundation programme provides students with a firm grounding in the study skills needed for successful progression throughout their university studies. It also provides an introduction to one of four broad areas of study (Humanities, Social Sciences, Natural Sciences or Health). The second year of study allows students to focus in more detail on specific subject areas relevant to their interests and intended future studies.

Successful completion of the foundation year guarantees progression onto our CertHE in Combined Studies (see page 8 for more information), although many students use this course as preparation for further degree level study, either at the University of Sheffield or another institution. We offer support and advice to students wishing to do this.

The reasons for studying the part-time programme vary. You may want to:

- Build your confidence and update your study skills before starting on a full degree course
- Get a taste of more than one subject area before deciding which particular academic route to follow
- Gain subject area knowledge in order to support an application to a specific degree programme
- Continue onto our part-time CertHE programme

Students studying on this course can access the full range of support and facilities available to full time students.

FEES AND FUNDING

Choosing to return to education can be one of the most significant decisions of your life. Fees and funding are an important consideration, but there is plenty of support available to help you understand how to finance your studies.

Information on tuition fees at the University of Sheffield can be found at www.sheffield.ac.uk/registration/tuitionfees. UK full-time and part-time students can apply for a government tuition fee loan and eligible students will not need to pay anything up front and there will be nothing to pay back until you start to earn £25,725*. You may also be eligible for a University bursary.

To find out more visit www.sheffield.ac.uk/ssid/finance/money

For specific information on funding full-time study visit www.sheffield.ac.uk/dll/fees-funding/full-time

For specific information on funding part-time study visit www.sheffield.ac.uk/dll/fees-funding/part-time

Still not sure?
We have a range of opportunities to help you explore your options as a mature student:

THE DISCOVER COURSE

Discover is a FREE award winning short course, designed to inspire adults who haven’t been to university to progress with their learning. This course usually runs for 6 weeks, one morning per week, and focuses on themes that link into the subjects offered by the Department for Lifelong Learning.

Delivered in partnership with local heritage museums and Learn for Life Enterprises, the course gives a real flavour of the university experience, giving participants a chance to take part in a range of small group activities and discussions. It also provides vital information, advice and guidance such as how to apply to university and how to finance your studies.

The course is suitable for anyone aged 21 or over who is considering applying to higher education and would like to find out more about becoming a university student.

There are no formal entry requirements, but please note that:
• participants for whom English is their second language must be able to speak and write English to at least ESOL Level 2
• participants who have already gained a degree are not eligible for this course

For more information, upcoming course dates, or to register your interest in the course visit www.sheffield.ac.uk/dll/discover

“The course gave me an insight into myself, challenged my ideas about what I could contribute and boosted my confidence. I learnt that I have a lot of valuable life experience” Discover participant.
OPEN DAYS AND TASTER COURSES

If you would like to find out what it is like to be a student at the University of Sheffield, we regularly hold open days and run taster sessions. Our team of student ambassadors also visit a wide variety of local events and adult learning settings.

To see our full programme of upcoming events and activities visit www.sheffield.ac.uk/dll/events-open-days

“The event helped to clarify my decision about which course to apply for and reassured me of the high level of support for mature students”

“An excellent event, the enthusiasm and professionalism of all those involved was wonderful”

“Today has given me back some confidence to apply and really made me look to the future. Thank you!”
